

Osage Nation Selects PlanetBids to Centralize Procurement and Improve Collaboration Across Departments

[August 20, 2026] - Osage Nation announced today it has selected PlanetBids digital procurement platform to modernize procurement operations, replacing manual, decentralized processes with a unified digital system designed to improve visibility, collaboration, and efficiency.

Managing several dozen bids annually, Osage Nation previously relied on spreadsheets, email communication, website postings, newspaper ads, and third-party construction sites to distribute and manage solicitations. This fragmented approach made it difficult to track project status, coordinate across departments, and maintain consistent communications with vendors.

With PlanetBids, Osage Nation is centralizing procurement into a single system that streamlines the entire bid lifecycle, from creation and vendor notification to Q&A, addenda, and evaluation. The platform also expands vendor outreach through automated notifications, increasing participation and competition.

Key benefits to Osage Nation include:

Centralized Collaboration: Real-time visibility into procurement activity reduces miscommunication and keeps stakeholders aligned.

Expanded Vendor Reach: Automated notifications connect projects with a broader, more relevant vendor pool.

Improved Efficiency: Digital bid management replaces manual tracking, reducing administrative workload.

Stronger Audit Readiness: All documents and activities are stored in one system, simplifying reporting and compliance.

Contract Visibility: A centralized repository improves tracking of contracts, timelines, and project history.

“PlanetBids is excited to support Osage Nation as they modernize their procurement processes,” said David DiGiacomo, PlanetBids’ CEO. “By centralizing procurement, they’re creating a more efficient and transparent approach to managing public projects.”
